3. As a result of the Omnibus Diplomatic Security and Antiterrorism Act signed by the President in late August 1986, former Iranian hostages will be able to receive special cash compensation amounting to approximately $22,000 per person. Other provisions include special education benefits for former captives and their family members, and medical and health care. The Omnibus Act also provides compensation for captives in other hostage situations, specifying that the President will establish the level of compensation in these cases.

25X1 5. Representatives from the Offices of Personnel, Security and Medical Services met for a joint seminar [] this past week to facilitate discussions of the intricacies of the applicant process and to stimulate the seeding of new ideas. Participants specifically addressed and made recommendations regarding the possibility of a central processing center and a centralized data base. All attendees believed this seminar was very worthwhile and came away with a greater appreciation for the role each office plays in the clearance process.

6. OP and Directorate of Intelligence representatives attended Minority Career Fairs at Xavier, Southern, and Dillard Universities, where approximately 45 students were interviewed for Agency employment. A high level of interest was shown by 42 of these students, and further processing and follow-up is being initiated.
